It's amazing how soon the likes of Corker forget how Trump treated Romney.

Robert Costa @costareports
My latest... Corker tries to rebuild his relationship with President Trump in a series of calls and has coffee with Ivanka. But he's undecided on whether to shelve his retirement plans and the WH is not rushing to embrace him. washingtonpost.com/powerpost/cork...

Is this a "difference beyond family-based immigration" that counts, Marc?

they met several other standards, including having no felony convictions. After being in the U.S. for 10 years, they could apply to be lawful permanent residents. Three years later, they could apply for citizenship.

These immigrants are not specifically mentioned, but they could be affected by stepped-up enforcement. The plan

Aside from Gang of 8 keeping parental chain-migration, how do the family reunification, visa elimination and border wall provisions of Trump's plan differ substantially from Gang of 8?

I'll wait while you google. And I won't be surprised by a lack of an on-point response

Neera Tanden

Don't need to google. Here's just one: pedestrian fencing is not the same as building a wall. And you know who you can ask about that? Trump. But fact you call it chain-migration gives up the game on your immigration views.

Because Trump wants his wall. I'm not saying it's right or a good idea or whatever. It's what he wants. And yes, Trump has flip-flopped everywhere.

So this is my opinion: Trump would sign a bill with the wall and DACA.

To find out, Congress will have to give it to him.

Your initial "do nothing" formulation is entirely at odds with what actually happened during shutdown, in which Trump was offered multiple concessions and turned them down.

And it literally frames the debate as one in which only Ds can be to blame for Dreamers getting deported.

The need of MSM to always show an opposing view, find the mirror image of a news story comes from a desire to show that they are not "liberal". It has been very damaging to reporting to have journalists take the accusation of "liberal MSM" so personally.

Since this isn't a standard you used for black teenagers who were wrongly accused of rape, I'm going to go ahead and think you really care about due process when it's men accused of rape or assault. --> Women of America, I hope you're paying attention.

Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump
Peoples lives are being shattered and destroyed by a mere allegation. Some are true and some are false. Some are old and some are new. There ■ no recovery for someone falsely accused - life and career are gone. Is there no such thing any longer as Due Process?

Late last year there were a lot of floating rumors from the access media folks that a lot of White House staffers including some Cabinet Secretaries are all miserable and are going to leave the WH in January after completing one year term.

What happened to that?

Missouri special swing h/t @mcimaps
Large swings as in WI-SD10 & AD58 pose a question: how is it we see such large swings yet Trump approval is 80% among Reps? Low R turnout despite high app? Massive D turnout? These are deep R districts. D won West Bend WI normally R+25 & up.

They can sign up to phone bank to help out candidates. They might be able to leverage the time differences to make contacts more efficient for the campaigns. If they use PayPal or have a credit/debit card tied to a US bank/address, they may be able to make contributions.

Not that Trump is an innocent person, but innocent people avoid (or, should avoid) talking to prosecutors, too. Refusing to talk to prosecutors is not, by itself, an indication of guilt, it's an indication of getting and following good advice from your attorneys.

My main point is that folks who think they can wait til the Fall are wrong. Early organizing matters. This is the time to register new voters in swing districts. Help your states parties or local organizations do that. Start talking to your friends and family now about voting now

I totally understand need to express anger & we can use social media for that. But in 2018 let's do something different. Let's use it to organize.Organize so we build the largest midterm turnout in history. If every progressive voter turns out, we will wash the GOP out of office.

Neera Tanden @neeratanden · 4 Feb 2018

Dear Followers,
The midterms are the most important of my lifetime. If the GOP win, even worse will happen after November. So I'm going to use my twitter feed in a new way: to push people towards not just voting, but activism & volunteering ahead of the elections.

Neera Tanden
@neeratanden

If you have q's about what you can do, tweet them at me, and I'll try to connect you to folks to engage you. If you have pictures phone banking, door knocking, tweet them at me,I'll try to retweet. Let's get everyone we know in every state to vote.Our futures hang in the balance

My main point is that folks who think they can wait til the Fall are wrong. Early organizing matters. This is the time to register new voters in swing districts. Help your states parties or local organizations do that. Start talking to your friends and family now about voting now

I totally understand need to express anger & we can use social media for that. But in 2018 let's do something different. Let's use it to organize.Organize so we build the largest midterm turnout in history. If every progressive voter turns out, we will wash the GOP out of office.

@hughhewitt this is false. Please check DOJ pushback to multiple sources because the partisan memo is wrong. If you need to misrepresent to make your case, it's wrong.

Hugh Hewitt @hughhewitt
It could have been much shorter: @FBI/DOJ withheld material facts from FISA Court that, as former Fed Judge wrote me this AM, would lead the Judge to cancel warrant, issue show cause as to why, and which is "highly probative" of govt's intent to mislead. End of memo. twitter.com/blakehounshell...

jeremy scahill @jeremyscahill
The memo doesn't come close to saying what Hannity and company want it to say. It clearly is cherry-picked. It is also laughable, as the Democrats and FBI allege, that this "memo" harms national security. What a shit show of dishonesty across the board.

Sure--when the NYT provides any proof (or names, or sources or anything other than anonymous assertion) for its claims. Funny that the FBI cooks up this story right at the point that the House is demanding to see the documents that will show what really happened. twitter.com/TVietor08/stat...

It begins. This is the campaign start to firing Mueller. FBI is tainted...so Mueller is tainted.

> Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump
> The top Leadership and Investigators of the FBI and the Justice Department have politicized the sacred investigative process in favor of Democrats and against Republicans - something which would have been unthinkable just a short time ago. Rank & File are great people!

Or it could be Dems perform average in blue districts, over perform in swing and GOP over perform in red districts.

Critical issue is who is turning out. Hard for polls to pick this up. Gillespie did super well with rural counties -- was just blown out by dem turnout in swing.

my point is that the perception throughout 2017 (and before then, in 2016) was that economy was improving but it still wasn't in great shape. Something happened last month, in all the major polls. Maybe it was the tax bill and news of corporate bonuses?

Josh Kraushaar @HotlineJosh · 31 Jan 2018

the most telling crosstab from the NBC/WSJ poll is that Dems have a more-positive view of the economy now than they did in the entire 8 yrs of the Obama admin, incl in 2016 when optimism was growing. That's not just believing GOP spin.

You do realize Trump said the virtually same economy was a disaster for 2 yrs and didn't sound tone deaf to you.

Josh Kraushaar @HotlineJosh
As I wrote last week, Dems will need to start recalibrating their message on the economy – or else risk being seen as tone deaf if economy continues to grow. njour.nl/s/663139?unloc...

Here's another: splinternews.com/democrats-pick...

It's an interesting look coming from a party that seems constantly ready to sell out the people of color in its base. Given that, in nearly every single report announcing Democrats' decision, Kennedy is described as a "rising star," it seems the party has shown its hand in settling on a strategy for beating Trump in 2020: Get an unoffensive white man who's young and pedigreed to urge America that we don't need radical change as long as the party of "equality" is in the White House.

Here's a writer on the left taking the same position as the anonymous GOP staffer Matt uses as his foil: dailydot.com/layer8/joe-ken...

> In the current political landscape, women and minorities have the microphone. Their influence was exhibited in the DACA debate and the #MeToo movement. It seems logical to push a profile that resonates in both those communities. Somebody like Sen. Kamala Harris (D-Calif.) or even Rep. Tulsi Gabbard (D-Hawaii). A lawmaker with a voice that says I hear you before she even begins to speak. In announcing Kennedy's upcoming remarks, Nancy Pelosi released a statement saying "While President Trump has consistently broken his promises to the middle class, Congressman Kennedy profoundly understands the challenges facing hard-working men and women across the country." While the youthful congressman seems to be a genuinely good person, it's hard to imagine a Kennedy understanding the challenges facing hard-working men and women across the country.

He will do a speech and John Kelley will background reporters 4 hours later that takes it all back.

> Caution: Trump will read from a teleprompter at the SOTU. It will be passable, though extreme. Yet, members of the mainstream media will once again say he's turned the corner, he's met the minimum threshold, etc & normalize his behavior. Don't fall for it. Not for 1 second.

I think this position of not politicizing art was a tad undermined by Trump attacking Hamilton in the first week after he was elected.

I have always loved the Grammys but to have artists read the Fire and Fury book killed it. Don't ruin great music with trash. Some of us love music without the politics thrown in it.

The question has never been "is Putin a good guy?" Nobody thinks he is, as I suspect you know. The question is whether attacks on people who ask for evidence & worry about the motives of those pushing a specific narrative are disingenuous & illiberal, which they tend to be.

I believe my position here is consistent with what it's always been. What I've called McCarthyite has been attacks on social justice advocates for asking for evidence/pushing back on certain claims. Please link a tweet that you think expresses a different position, if one exists.

Thinking the middle of the Senate has power with Trump in the White House and Ryan is Speaker, kowtowing to the Freedom Caucus, is near-magical thinking.

Matthew Dowd @matthewjdowd

Here is a suggestion for Senators who want to bring common sense to DC and who want to build consensus: leave your party's caucus, form a new caucus of Ds and Rs, and become the center of power in DC.

The Senate can pass Dream tomorrow. That does not make the House pass it. Thinking the moderates in the Senate have a lot of power in the Trump era to pass actual bills seems off.

Any "deal" that can get through House would be far too destructive, hurt more people than it helps over long term.

DACA victims will have to endure somehow until Dems capture some real power

I think a dividing line amongst political leaders is people who get that Trump practices dominance politics: he's a bully and only way to fight that is to push back; on the other side are political leaders who think the middle ground stance in the Senate still matters much.

@neeratanden

I know it's insane to think Trump's incompetence has anything to do with this shutdown.

saying that Mr. Durbin, the second-ranking Democrat, had expressed anger at the document, and that Mr. Trump, who often plays to the crowd in front of him, was merely joining in the outrage.

On Saturday, the president was left alternately defiant and angry, self-pitying and frustrated. He argued to aides that he did not deserve the blame he was taking, but without a credible deal on the table, there was little for him to do. Irritated to have missed his big event in Florida, Mr. Trump spent much of his day watching old TV clips of him berating President Barack Obama for a lack of leadership during the 2013 government

Why would anyone trust them to do a deal when the government is open?

Exactly. The GOP let CHIP expire and cancelled DACA when the gov't was open. If those are the hills they want to fight and maybe (or maybe not) die on, that's fine! But don't pretend those positions are a function of anything done by Democrats.

@AriFleischer McConnell didn't vote last night probably because they don't have 50 votes. Sooo you may want to rewrite this.

Ari Fleischer @AriFleischer
This story never mentions core issue driving the budget breakdown: the filibuster. Ds threatened to filibuster each appropriation bill, blocking passage. The result? A 60-vote margin for one big bill. Want DC to work better? End the filibuster for approps. washingtonpost.com/business/econo…

What I learned from reading these letters: hus supporters like Trump, read his tweets and recite what he tells them about his accomplishments. They basically all said he defeated ISIS and got the economy going gangbusters on his own. Which is his tweets every day. #tribalism

You got probs w/ the story, take it to Sen. McCaskill, Dan. She's on the record. "We've got people running for president all trying to find their base, and then you've got people from Trump states that are trying to continue to legislate the way we always have — by negotiation."

I must confess, I'm missing the importance of the distinction here.

Josh Dawsey @jdawsey1
White House official told me tonight there is debate internally on whether Trump said "shithole" or "shithouse." Perdue and Cotton seem to have heard latter, this person said, and are using to deny.

It's pretty pointless slamming Trump if the only available alternative is that which fuels the xenophobia etc that led to his win. Need to focus on creating a progressive alternative, but Russiagate was designed to distract from that. imo.

This a really important article on a possible future for the Democratic Party: running and winning with outsider servant candidates who are simply motivated to help their communities h/t @howiewolf politico.com/magazine/story …

This is a great article. What's interesting is we used a similar model in my area to win last Nov. The existing D structure was ossified and out of touch so we built our own structure, recruited candidates and went on to win. Main diff was suburban women doing the org.

One thing that struck me: all of those recruited to run by by these "progressives" were white males. I'm sure there were some women who would have met their criteria.

Exactly what I've been saying.

@nytimes palace intrigue articles are normalizing him. Whereas @MichaelWolffNYC's book was just unfiltered truth which finally got Bannon fired.

We need more unfiltered truth instead of NYT-splaining of Trump's "reinvention of Presidency".

Democrats have been all over the airwaves recently accusing Donald Trump of abusing the Justice Department to go after his political enemies —most notably his former opponent Hillary Clinton and the Clinton Foundation, which the Department of Justice is reportedly currently investigating based on allegation made during the 2016 presidential campaign. So you'd think they would oppose handing Donald Trump any more power with which he could potentially use against all sorts of Americans who attract negative attention from his administration.

Yet, with the help of some Democrats, the House of Representatives voted today – and the Senate will do so sometime in the next week –

UP THE PRESSURE. CAP Action is sending a memo to Democrats on Capitol Hill to call on them to reject any bill that doesn't include protection for Dreamers. "The fight to protect Dreamers is not only a moral imperative, it is also a critical component of the Democratic Party's future electoral success. ... If Democrats can't even stand up to Trump and Republicans in defense of Dreamers -- whose moral case is unassailable -- they will leave a lot of progressives wondering who Democrats will fight for. I've had to put up with the Fake News from the first day I announced that I would be running for President. Now I have to put up with a Fake Book, written by a totally discredited author. Ronald Reagan had the same problem and handled it well. So will I!

Millions of kids use CHIP for basic health care; it was bipartisan legislation. Children who have cancer are on CHIP for their health care. Imagine being their parent, worried about insurance. It's simply unconscionable that GOP can't get its act together to simply reauthorize.

I believe the people who tell me that a Democrat won in Alabama and the new Dem governor of VA had highest turnout in 30 years. Trump lies to you and you fall for it; don't blame me for that.

Humiliating. But more importantly, very frightened for the Democracy of my country. The corruption of federal & state gov't officials is eroding, destroying us as a PEOPLE. As well as our planet 🌎.

Trump and the media do realize that Trump is basically confirming this book in real time, right? Obviously, he's not confirming each aspect of it, but certainly he's confirming the main thrust.

I find it amazing that what reporters say is real about this book is how utterly unfit Trump is and that his staff agrees he's unfit. I didn't know that before. But suggest that it's odd that this hasn't been reported before and some reporters attack. Weird.

This is a ridiculous assertion, Neera. The reason you and all of us know about the chaos inside the West Wing is not this book. It is the amazing, brave reporting of people like @maggieNYT (and others) all last year. To suggest otherwise is simply false.

Child, some of us saw the chaos on the campaign trail, in the years of his business dealings, in his vendetta against Obama. Dear lord, all they had to do is write what we saw. Instead they invented narratives for him.

Have you read the full book? I read The Hollywood Reporter. Wolff doesn't buy that it's a strategy. He calls it just coherence. So that's some spin Wolff dismisses; I guess you're saying you bought it?

Iceland also had a woman prime minister almost a decade ago. Perhaps that had something to do with how women are treated there

Bernie Sanders @SenSanders
Iceland just became the first country in the world to make it illegal to pay men more than women. In the United States in 2016, black women made 62.5 cents on the dollar compared to white men and hispanic women made 54.4 cents. That is a disgrace.

@nytimes editors could have made it a page 20 minor story, which it should have been. They put it on front page, and then later made the entire front page about Huma's laptop. Just as they front paged the claim that there was nothing to the Trump-Russia story.

The allegations that we have colluded with Trump, or any other candidate for that matter, or with Russia, are just groundless and false. We receive information anonymously, through an anonymous submission platform. We do not need to know the identity of the source, neither do we want to know it.

The intention of the source is irrelevant in our editorial

@wltaskforce what's the explanation for @wikileaks dm-ing back and forth with Don Trump Jr and offering campaign advice? You really going to continue to play dumb games? Sorry I'm listening to the IC on where the emails came from, not Trump campaign helpers like Wikileaks. twitter.com/wltaskforce/st…

But NYT's WH team has an access problem. It's not a myth anymore. Just like how 2017 proved Trump camp's collusion with Russia isn't a myth anymore.

Neera Tanden @neeratanden

This article is making me feel better about sparring with Times WH reporters this week.

Nothing helps Trump more than grading on a massive curve.

Happy New Years everyone! Here's to restoring as much decency in 2018 as we can.

The New York Times @nytimes
President Trump has brought a reality-show accessibility to a once-aloof presidency, invigorating voters who felt alienated by the establishment nyti.ms/2DDJii3

2017 wasn't an easy year, but what I'm most thankful for is the ordinary people in every corner of this country who did things they've never done before: flooded town halls and airports, called their member of Congress, voted in off-year elections.They will take the country back.

He's gone from thinking a Dem wave is possible to arguing against it. Good news that Trump isn't impervious to all forms of reality. We can bring him his greatest fear: A Dem Congress that holds him accountable

> Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump
> Why would smart voters want to put Democrats in Congress in 2018 Election when their policies will totally kill the great wealth created during the months since the Election. People are much better off now not to mention ISIS, VA, Judges, Strong Border, 2nd A, Tax Cuts & more?

One word captures the exchange: MANIPULATION.

Schmidt knows Trump's many weaknesses & used them to guide the feeble-minded authoritarian into scoop-worthy quotables by spoon-feeding him ledes & keywords.

Inception.

The #1 reveal - that Trump is so easily prompted & exploited.

Any rational person would say it was quite the opposite.

Chris Hayes @chrislhayes
Amazing (and admirable!) that none of this leaked during the actual campaign. Completely annihilates any idea FBI investigators had a thumb on the scale for Clinton.

Why is it Maggie Haberman was tweeting about how amazing it was for Schmidt to just run into trump when trump was interested in being interviewed (well, interested in having his speech recorded then transcribed)? Was she unaware or covering for the set up? This looks bad.

She was covering for a clearly transparent facade because it's how she and Schmidt maintain access. Access and profit driven journalism at its worst. Nothing in that story hasn't already been on POTUS twitter account. Now, it's simply been laundered un-fact-checked into cycle

One argument for asking follow-up questions when you actually get a chance to interview Trump is that he reveals his inner monologue all the time on Twitter anyway. The marginal value of publishing a one-way conversation would be higher if he were more reserved on this forum.

NYT's Mike Schmidt was the reporter who the GOP Benghazi committee leaked to; maybe that is why Trump respects him and perhaps that is why the "interview" is sycophantic. Perhaps other reporters could look into that instead of blindly defending.

This ending to The NYT interview perfectly sums up liberal distrust of the media: the thought is basically this is what happened in 2016 for ratings.

TRUMP: We're going to win another four years for a lot of reasons, most importantly because our country is starting to do well again and we're being respected again. But another reason that I'm going to win another four years is because newspapers, television, all forms of media will tank if I'm not there because without me, their ratings are going down the tubes. Without me, The New York Times will indeed be not the failing New York Times, but the failed New York Times. So they basically have to let me win. And eventually, probably six months before the election, they'll White men and women largely still chose the Republican candidate, with [redacted] percent voting for Moore, especially in rural counties. White, college-educated women preferred Moore, with 57 percent voting for him compared to 43 percent of college graduates overall. White voters without a college degree overwhelmingly chose the Republican candidate, according to an exit poll by The Washington Post.

I can't recommend this story enough. The best antidote to structural inequality are unions that allow workers to partake in the profits from higher productivity and take some of the benefits of profitability.

Very weak "apology" that doesn't suggest they truly understand why their "attempt at humor" was so inappropriate and offensive. It falls more into the category of being sorry they got called out, not sorry for showing disrespect and zero class.

That page doesn't list your donors. It lists some of your donors. Many of them - including 3 who gave $1 million or more - are "anonymous." You conceal their identity. By contrast, we list - both in public filings & our page - all our big donors

No, Neera. People in the street don't lionize David Frum & Mike Hayden. I'm talking about the DC operatives - including ones funded by foreign tyrants - who keep proclaiming themselves to be the "leaders" of the #Resistance, all the while commoditizing it for their own benefit.

The Alabama flip is only the beginning. All 14 California GOP need to be wiped out, 9 in New York as well. That's 23 right there and we need 25. Also, there are 23 Clinton GOP seats. Plus, historical loss of seats during midterms. We should win minimum 50 seats in the House.

<30% of "Dreamers" attain high school of which <5% go on to higher education. The remaining 70% quit school and go on entitlement programs, sell drugs or join gangs. So how do we justify giving citizenship to those below the 30%. 4% go in to the armed forces and 50% fail.

And he should be held accountable for his words. The thing is those weren't his own words! He was quoting the Bible. As a Christian, I am truly supportive of any elected officials from both Parties sharing passages from the Bible.. because it has lots of great things to say.

G. Elliott Morris @gelliottmorris
Democrats just shifted a deep red district in Tennessee by 46(!) points. Trump won it by 49, GOP candidate only won by 3% today.

Comes just a week after Democrats shifted #ALSen by 30%.

Documents she plans to make public. Stop trying to group the left in with Trump. You are carelessly encouraging conspiracy theories and narrowing the possibility for dissent. This is not progress, it's a disturbing homogenization of political discourse and reductionism.

This is what folks Trump too. Assume better motivations even when the corruption is staring us in the face.

Jonathan Chait @jonathanchait

IMO, the most likely reason for Corker's flip is he wanted to posture against bill but never wanted to kill it. Was exposed when McCain couldn't vote, is now voting for him.

This was actually much worse than I thought. Such a vicious and personal attack on @tanehisicoates - to call him a profiteer? A mere marketing product? Gratuitously reductive. TNC has challenged so much liberal orthodoxy on race. Mine included.

> There is no doubt that the marketing of Coates - like the marketing of anyone - warrants suspicion. Does the profiteering of fatalism about white supremacy and pessimism of black freedom fit well in an age of Trump - an age of neo-fascism, US style?

I thought the whole idea of this first ever Counter-Spying investigation of a presidential political campaign, was to find out who, if anyone, conspired with a hostile foreign gov't's attack, against the USA.

"Nearly presidential levels" [illegible] wildly inaccurate. We don't know how they turned out in 2016 because there were no exit polls. We know that 1.3 million voted in Dec. 2017, compared to 3.3 million registered voters and 2.1 million votes in November 2016.

African American neighborhoods voted at 90% of the Presidential election in 2016. Rural counties voted at 50%. That is why I say near presidential. There are articles on this.

Not closing the carried interest loophole should be a much bigger story. Trump got huge headlines during the campaign when he said he'd close it. They didn't even try.

Ok. I think you know the way folks are going to take an article like that. In your piece everyone was voting for Doug Jones in fact. But I would also say no one bats a 1000. Perhaps the style of interviewing 10 people to make mass judgments should just end.

The article flat out said African Americans weren't enthusiastic. The next day they voted at near presidential levels. Hence I'm saying the predictive value of interviewing 10 people to make judgments about a race is low, but if you want to say it isn't, then note it was wrong.

First, my response was to point out how bizarre it is to be criticized by someone at CAP for going on Fox when your own President does it. Second, how it is a "smear" to point out CAP's funding? Third, can you answer what I asked? Did she ever do this?https://www.mediaite.com/tv/glenn-greenwald-calls-out-the-disinformation-from-fox-news-on-fox-news/ …

This election has always been about the people of Alabama. Doug Jones now answers to Alabamians, who overwhelmingly support President Trump's conservative agenda, not Schumer & Democrat party bosses who prioritize obstruction over tax cuts & economic revival for Americans.

This is bs. No lameduck senator should be a vote to rewrite the tax code. Alabamans' choice should vote.

> Sean Sullivan @WaPoSean
> Senate Maj. Leader Mitch McConnell said today that Sen. Strange will be in the Senate through the end of this session -- meaning this year. That's big b/c it means Jones/Moore wouldn't get to vote on tax bill or spending plan, if it gets wrapped up in 2017 as GOP leaders hope.

Neera Tanden Retweeted Jen O'Malley Dillon

I'm a big fan of @jomalleydillon but this was the wrong call. Caucuses always have fewer people vote than primaries. It's not even a close call. I hope the broad DNC takes a different course.https://twitter.com/jomalleydillon/status/940433041595318272 …

Neera Tanden added,

Jen O'Malley Dillon Verified account @jomalleydillon
The motion to table was about one state, Nebraska. The state party chair of Nebraska was on the URC. It's not an easy call but a strong case was made about voter suppression at the hands of GOP & importance of party building. I felt it was the appropriate and fair thing to do.

None of those is my argument, and it never has been. You're totally fabricating my views. But who cares: it's what you do. That's literally your DC job. And you cited a CNN story that got totally debunked and said nothing to your followers about it. But that's also your job.

More lies from Trump:
Doug Jones is a former prosecutor who prosecuted the KKK, not an alleged child molester. So he's the tough on crime candidate. Jones is a veteran and son of working class. Wants to pass CHIP and invest in education. And he'll never embarrass Alabama.

> Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump
> Democrats refusal to give even one vote for massive Tax Cuts is why we need Republican Roy Moore to win in Alabama. We need his vote on stopping crime, illegal Immigration, Border Wall, Military, Pro Life, V.A., Judges 2nd Amendment and more. No to Jones, a Pelosi/Schumer Puppet!

Just to be clear
We have the quid: help on the election (emails and meetings with Russians to help on the election; Russia dumping Hillary emails via Wikileaks)
And now the quo: Trump undoing Obama's sanctions on Russia.

The people who bought into every lie told by Tad Devine and Jeff Weaver, and who still excuse things like the Sanders team's stealing Hillary's voter data, lying about it, & fundraising off of those lies, will not admit that mainstream Democrats are decent people.

That is why the first step of the progressive agenda is to repeal this bill if it passes. Who is with me?

> Bruce Bartlett @BruceBartlett
> The entire progressive agenda will be off the table for a generation insofar as it involves spending a dime for anything. The money won't be there. Democrats will have to do all they can just to keep Social Security from being privatized and Medicare turned into a block grant.

1992-2000 was the last time we had a budget surplus and reduced the public debt. Is it just me or wouldn't it be easier just to reimplement those tax policies (and go back and rethink Citizen's United & Glass-Steagall)?

McCain is a yes on the tax cut, but he is also Taking Seriously the Concerns about the deficit.

If we could tax furrowed brows...

"Finally, I take seriously the concerns some of my Senate colleagues have raised about the impact of this bill on the deficit. However, it's clear this bill's net effect on our economy would be positive. This is not a perfect bill, but it is one that would deliver much-needed reform to our tax code, grow the economy, and help Americans keep more of their hard-earned money."

How about a campaign where people write to 50 members of Congress?
50 x $0.34 per postcard = $17

At $17/person (about 4 Starbucks), Americans could drown Congress in postcards expressing disdain at their inaction.

Here's my actual tweet where I say @ggreenwald sounds like Trump. Not that he started the word. I won't accuse him of idiocy. But I do think this meets the urban dictionary of #greenwalding twitter.com/neeratanden/st …

Glenn Greenwald @ggreenwald
DC think tank idiocy: last year on Fox, Rush Limbaugh said he thinks I coined the term "deep state," so now @neeratanden believes that. Sigh: it's a term that's been used for decades by analysts who actually know about the US Government.

Thanks for listening and your kind words, @neeratanden. Yes, the story brought up Pizzagate. An NPR guest only misstated what Cernovich said about it. This was corrected. Yet there have now been hundreds of false or misleading tweets about the story. Should you correct yours?

Unfortunately once again, as in Georgia, they are over saturating market. This will again backfire, & make Moore seem like under dog, like Trump. The constant barrage of commercials just numb ppl to Moore's actual behavior. Money should go into canvassing & ground game ,

Please share with your friends in Alabama:
1 Doug Jones is a former prosecutor, not a child molester. So he's stronger on crime than Trump's choice.
2 He's supporting our vets and military. Also wants to ensure CHIP is reauthorized.
3 He hasn't called for a single tax increase

I really wish @deanbaquet would address this piece. The NYT normalizing Nazis is very disturbing.

Daniel Dale @ddale8
The NYT piece is just a symptom of a much broader problem we also see in stories of Trump, Trump voters, Breitbart, Bannon - the belief that it's not a reporter's job to call out bigotry, that the job ends at getting the quote.

Despotic regimes use public policy to punish groups that didn't vote for them. Just because the GOP does it on a large scale thru "tax reform" doesn't make it any less dangerous or disgusting.

Ronald Brownstein @RonBrownstein
Generational confiscation: Millennials & younger will receive few direct benefits from GOP #tax plan. But they will pay 4 higher federal debt, less investment in ed & likely entitlement cuts timed to bite after baby boom retires. theatlantic.com/politics/archi...

Bill Mitchell @mitchellvii · 22 Nov 2017

Moore's 14 year old accuser claims his assault on her lead to a life of bad behavior, but we find the custody hearing he met her at was because her mother wanted to give her up to her father for BAD BEHAVIOR. She was already a head case before she even met Moore (if she did).

Neera Tanden

Why are you lying? A cop came forward and said this well known. Why are you defending a man accused of pedophilia?

So cops never lie, even though it was decided by the Supreme Court a long time ago that they legally could, and that fact is often cited by far-left political activists in protest "know your rights" trainings. And an'ex-cop would never lie if it were in their interests? Come on.

James Jesus Angleton @JamesAngleton75 · 25 Nov 2017

Gloria Allred paid Summer Zervos $500,000 to lodge false assault allegations against Trump during the election, you guys got behind that too, then she was exposed as a liar, and after the election just "magically disappeared." But THIS ex-cop in THIS Allred case is being honest?

Really? Or maybe misogyny is better defined as blaming a woman candidate for being understandably afraid that she will be too harshly judged by an undeniably sexist culture for saying "get away from me" under those circumstances.

Erin, your article is solid gold.A big problem is that our media refuses to admit that Fox News, talk radio, and right wing blog sites and social media with its troll armies are all part of a single right wing propaganda network that works in coordination with each other

Really how? How is doubling the standard deduction to $12,000 per individual and $24,000 per married couple a middle class tax increase? 🤔

Plus, pass-through entities (small businesses) see a HUGE tax cut under #Trump's plan.

The doubling of the standard deduction and the expansion of the child care tax credit more than make up for the removal of the other rarely used deductions.

Your rich liberal buddies will be hurt by #Trump's tax plan because they won't be able to deduct SALT. Sorry!

This is just not true – everyone in the middle class gets a tax increase in 2026 because the individual tax cuts expire and the corporate tax cuts are permanent. How do you justify that insanity?

The individual tax cuts have to expire after 10 years because Senate rules won't allow a 51 vote threshold to pass #Trump's tax plan if the tax cuts were permanent. Do you really believe either party is going to allow middle class tax cuts to lapse 10 years from now? Doubt it!

I feel like this a bit of 2016 all over. The flood of money plus the gerrymandering. And I don't know why we'd want to discount the importance of killing this.

Sanders doesn't signify an era of politics. The time has come for Dems introspection & evolution. Sanders is a Senator currently fighting against DT & for progressive policies. It's nauseatingly petty & shallow to threaten to attack him in the face of critiques of Clintons.

trashing Clintons or DNC, then they are all over you. @donnabrazile @SenWarren

Traitors get air time. Media continues to fail.

U.S. Presidential Election," documents how highly partisan right-wing sources helped shape mainstream press coverage and seize the public's attention in the 18-month period leading up to the election.

"In this study, we document polarization in the media ecosystem that is distinctly asymmetric. Whereas the left half of our spectrum is filled with many media sources from center to left, the right half of the spectrum has a substantial gap between center and right. The core of attention from the center-right to the left is large mainstream media organizations of the center-left. The right-wing media sphere skews to the far right and is dominated by highly partisan news organizations," co-author and principal investigator Yochai Benkler stated. In addition to Benkler, the report was authored by Robert Faris, Hal Roberts, Bruce Etling, Nikki Bourassa, and Ethan Zuckerman.

The fact that media coverage has become more polarized in general is not new, but the extent to which right-wing sites have become partisan is striking, the report says.

The study found that on the conservative side, more attention was paid to pro-Trump, highly partisan media outlets. On the liberal side, by contrast, the center of gravity was made up largely of long-standing media organizations. Robert Faris, the Berkman Klein Center's research director, noted, "Consistent with concerns over echo chambers and filter bubbles, social media users on the left and the right rarely share material from outside their respective spheres, except where they find coverage that is favorable to their choice of candidate. A key difference between the right and left is that Trump supporters found substantial coverage favorable to their side in left and center-left media, particularly coverage critical of Clinton. In contrast, the messaging from right-wing media was consistently pro-Trump." Conservative opposition to Trump was strongest in the center-right, the portion of the political spectrum that wielded the least influence in media coverage of the election.

In this recently-emerged universe, Breitbart stands at the center of a right-wing media ecosystem and is surrounded by sites like Fox News, the Daily Caller, the Gateway Pundit, the Washington Examiner, Infowars, Conservative Treehouse, and Truthfeed, according to the report's analysis.

Nor are those "surrogates" part of an established party that doesn't need or want the "unity" they espouse. Until they are able and willing to name and believe in the things that make the party what it is, they're nothing more than infiltrators. Also, they should be less racist.

ACA was a tax increase on the wealthy. That goes to any group's financial supporters. Including ours. Yet we strongly supported.

I think you're actually making my point. Liberal donors got a tax increase out of the ACA and they all had health care. And yet, Obama worked to pass. Seems only folks who like GOP tax plan is GOP donors - who will see massive windfall- and they're ramming it thru
